Hill Talk

Dr. Marc Lamont Hill ponders race, politics and criminal reform during far-ranging discussion

By Dan Murphy

Award-winning author and former CNN political commentator Dr. Marc Lamont Hill mused on race, politics and criminal reform during a far-ranging discussion Friday at Northeastern University's Blackman Auditorium.

"I firmly believe this generation of young people has all the tools and talent to make this movement just as transformative as the previous one," Dr. Hill said while drawing a parallel between today's "woke" movement, which has raised awareness of issues concerning social justice and racial justice, and the struggle for civil rights in the 1950s and '60s. "Young people around the world get it, and they're right to want to be free."

Dr. Hill told moderator Latoya Edwards, an Emmy Award-winning anchor on NBC 10 Boston and NECN, Emerson College graduate and Dorchester native, that today's politically conscious young people often face unfair criticism from their elders, just as trailblazers like Rosa Parks and Martin Luther King Jr. previously did. "There has never been a generation where their parents say,

Robert L. Beal, real estate titan and philanthropist, dies at 78

Robert L. Beal of Boston, age 78, passed away Sunday, Feb. 9. The former president of The Beal Companies and subsequently Related Beal, Robert devoted his heart and soul to his family, his work, and the City of Boston, and made a positive impact on everyone he met.

"Robert was a loving brother and uncle, mentor to many, and a friend to all," said his brother, Bruce A. Beal, Sr., chairman of Related Beal. "For over 50 years, he worked passionately and tirelessly to make Boston a better place, and left his mark not just on Boston's map, but also on its compass."

Born on Sept. 10, 1941, Robert graduated from Harvard College in 1963 and earned his MBA from Harvard Business School in 1965. He began his career at The Beacon Companies before joining his brother Bruce at the family business in 1976, where together they became the fourth generation of

BEACON HILL CIVIC ASSOCIATION COMMUNITY CORNER

A Great Celebration of Community!

The Four Seasons Boston ballroom was full of love last Saturday night when over 200 neighbors came together to "Celebrate Community" at the Beacon Hill Gala. Honorary Co-Chairs Cassie and Jack Gurnon symbolize to so many the spirit of community that we treasure on Beacon Hill.

The Gala Committee Co-Chairs, Melanie Bertani, Cindy Sullivan and Lindy Crawford added a new and exciting edge to the event with the sale of "bricks", a live auction with Robin Starr from Skinner, and a silent auction as well. The BHCA would like to thank Audley Travel, Cambridge Trust and the Walton/Waterfall Family for sponsoring this event, and to all the local businesses that donated items for our brick sale.

After an amazing dinner, guests danced the night away to live music from the Sugarbabies band. A wonderful time was had by all!

Councilor Bok Speaks at BHCA Board Meeting

The Directors of the BHCA

Board were pleased to welcome Councilor Kenzie Bok and Jonathan Spillane to their board meeting this week. Bok discussed many issues that are important to her that affect Beacon Hill; namely city funding, preservation, the importance of young families in our neighborhood, transportation, streets and sidewalks, traffic regulation around the Common and Public Garden, and many others. She also discussed the MGH expansion and the Hurley

“these kids get it,” he added.

Regarding the Black Lives Matters movement, Dr. Hill said, “There’s a perception that it went from being the center of the conversation, and that it’s just dissipated. “I think that’s unfair criticism.” Instead, he believes the movement brought issues like police brutality to the “mainstream.”

“Police should be held accountable, but that doesn’t mean we hate the police or wish harm on the police,” Dr. Hill said. “They shouldn’t operate with impunity. That’s the point of Black Lives Matter.”

As one of five children, one of whom was recently released from incarceration, Dr. Hill said he strives to “struggle for a world without prisons.”

“I’m not a reformer, I’m an abolitionist,” he said. “I want to live in a world where justice doesn’t look like punishment.”

A 42-year-old native of West Philadelphia, Dr. Hill also witnessed firsthand the devastation that the crack cocaine epidemic wreaked on the community he grew up in, as well as on his own family.

Dr. Hill recalls as a boy, an older cousin who would babysit for him would inexplicably go missing for extended periods of time; only later did Dr. Hill learn his cousin was smoking crack during these absences.

“I remember these moments,” Dr. Hill said. “I knew he was sick, he had an illness.”

Moreover, Dr. Hill points to the hypocrisy of a prevailing view in society and the criminal justice system that cocaine use is a bad habit whereas use of crack cocaine equates a “bad person.”

“If you make a bad choice with cocaine, they send you to rehab, but if you make a bad decision with crack, you go to prison,” Dr. Hill said. “Justice doesn’t equal punishment, and punishment doesn’t equal confinement.”

Despite reports of a flourishing economy, Dr. Hill said the largesse – and opportunities- often doesn’t trickle down to people of color at the same rate.

“If you’re measuring the economy by how Wall Street is doing, you can absolutely call it a victory, but so many people have stopped looking for work and so many are vulnerable,” he said. “We have to keep track of that as well.”

“We have to keep track specifically of the ways blacks experience

unemployment, which doesn’t mean there aren’t jobs available [because] when you’re seen as black, you’re less likely to get a job – or even an interview,” he added.

Speaking two days after President Trump’s acquittal, Dr. Hill said, “If you don’t impeach this President, you should take impeachment off the list of possibilities. This President has clearly violated the spirit and letter of the Constitution.”

Dr. Hill added that U.S. citizens have a moral and ethical responsibility to hold both Congress and the Republican Party accountable for the trial’s outcome, with one notable reception – Sen. Mitt Romney of Utah, the sole Republican who voted to convict the president.

Still, Dr. Hill said, “I’m cynical about Mitt Romney because he had many other opportunities to hold Trump accountable before this, why now?”

Looking to the primary elections, Dr. Hill postulated that one Democratic candidate, Kamala Harris, is being held to a higher level of scrutiny by other women of color.

When Edwards asked Dr. Hill how to people of color could be better engaged at the voting polls, Hill said, “Part of the problem is we have to talk to everyday, working people and find out what’s important to them and articulate that in a way that resonates.”

And while the results of last week’s Iowa primary might’ve come as a shock to some, Dr. Hill said it wasn’t a very surprising outcome considering the state backed Barack Obama and Hilary Clinton in the 2008 and 2012 primaries, respectively.

“There open to something different, it’s possible,” Dr. Hill said. “America’s a funny place – why is Mayor Pete still around?”

EDITORIAL

THE (CLIMATE) NEWS IS ALL BAD

At the start of World War II, President Franklin Roosevelt reportedly said to his aides, "So far, the news is all bad," referring to the reports from the front in the immediate aftermath of Pearl Harbor when the Japanese were taking unopposed control of territory throughout the Pacific.

That's the way we've been feeling lately about the matter of our changing climate and the resulting degradation of the environment in every corner of the planet. Week after week, all we hear and see is bad news about the negative effects of climate change.

At the beginning of the year, there were the terrible images of the continent of Australia, literally on fire, with great clouds of smoke suffocating the populace and even affecting the people of New Zealand, which is 1,300 miles across the sea. There also were the estimated hundreds of millions of wildlife creatures who were consumed by flames that became so hot that they formed a phenomena known as a fire tornado.

In the middle of January, we in the Boston area, along with most of the Northeast, experienced record-high temperatures that reached 70 degrees on back-to-back days for the first time ever in the supposedly-coldest month of the year.

Europe also experienced its warmest-ever January.

The warm winter trend has continued into February. Just this past weekend, as we were watching the local news, the weatherman said that the average temperature in Boston thus far in February is a whopping 8.8 degrees above normal.

Last week, it was reported that the highest-ever temperature, 64.9 degrees, was recorded in Antarctica, a reading that was comparable to the high temperatures in the southern half of the U.S. on that day. Similarly, last summer saw record-setting high temperatures in the Arctic Circle at the earth's northern pole.

Bob Dylan wrote, "You don't need a weather man to know which way the wind blows." Similarly, none of us need the experts to tell us that climate change is happening at a far greater rate than even the most dire of forecasts had predicted just a few years ago -- the evidence is all around us. (And at the other end of the political spectrum, we certainly do not need bozo politicians in Washington telling us that climate change is NOT happening).

Those of us who live in the Greater Boston area are among the most at risk for the twin dangers of climate change posed by rising sea levels and massive storms.

The inescapable reality facing us simply seems to be this: Given the inaction of our federal government leaders to reduce carbon emissions, which are at the root of climate change, it would appear that our way of life as we know it is all but doomed, as the impact of climate change grows by degrees, literally and figuratively, day-by-day.

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES, MOOKIE,

It is inconceivable to lifelong Red Sox fans such as ourselves that the Sox' management decided to trade away Mookie Betts to the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for a few random players.

Mookie not only was an amazing talent who gave the Sox an ability to compete with the best teams in the league, but he also brought a joy and exuberance to the game that was infectious both on the field and throughout every nook and cranny of Fenway Park.

The Red Sox management apparently feels the need to cut payroll because of the luxury tax, whatever that is (and you need to be an accountant to figure out the byzantine structure of salary caps in pro sports these days).

Maybe that's so, but what is not beyond dispute is that our summer evenings, whether at Fenway or in front of our big-screen televisions, will be a lot less exciting without Mookie Betts either at the plate, on the basespaths, or in right field.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY FEB. 14.

GUEST OP-ED

Valentine Day befuddling

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

Valentine's Day is a befuddling time - bewildering, confusing.

Flowers that you would buy to give to someone are probably already tripled in price. Our local grocery store sometimes sells a dozen roses for under $30, but they will be over $70 during Valentine's season. You can't go a week early and save either. They are smart about that and have already priced them higher.

Those Valentine boxes of candy have been out for awhile. If you want to buy a cheap box you had better go now. A retailing friend told me about a man walking in his store late on Valentine's Day one year and the only boxes of candy left were the very expensive ones. He said the man stood and looked befuddled and finally gave in and shelled out the cash but he could tell the man was feeling the pinch in his billfold.

Women like candy, flowers, cards, dinners, jewelry and all kinds of stuff. Men like stuff too but speaking from a man's point of view it seems like the pressure is on us men to not foul up Valentine's Day.

I always try to come up with the flowers and a card and usually a dinner out. My wife and I agreed a long time ago that we didn't need candy. We figured this out the year my wife bought me a pound of really good chocolate and I ate the entire box in less than 24 hours. You see, sometimes when we are treated too good, we just make ourselves sick.

Valentine's Day is about warm feelings, love and showing kindness to special people. It's certainly about not forgetting the day or the warm feelings will go south. I like how we did it in grade school. We had a Valentine's card box and my mother would buy me a cheap box of Valentine cards and we made sure everybody in the class got a card. Sometimes people would not receive as many as others and some cute girls and guys always got a few more. That may or may not have been so good.

Maybe this Valentine's Day while you are being romantic toward your spouse of significant other you can pass some kindness and love out to some others. If you can get to the cheap boxes of candy early you can buy several people a box. I've found that my coworkers love getting a small box of candy as do children and friends. It never hurts to pass the love around.

I was taught to love God and my fellowman but I can't love Hitler, serial killers, ISIS terrorists and a few other evil people. God has a kind of love that I don't always understand or grasp, especially when it comes to me. Why would he ever love me? It befuddles me. This year think about befuddling a few people as Valentine's Day gives you a perfect opportunity.

City cracking down on illegal signage in Historic District

By Dan Murphy

In response to a proliferation of illegal signage throughout the Beacon Hill Historic District, the city has begun cracking down on this unsightly advertising ploy.

According to Section 1, "Sign Guidelines," of the Beacon Hill Architectural Guidelines, "exterior walls may not be used for display of merchandise or temporary advertising boards" and "free-standing signs are not permitted" in the neighborhood's Historic District.

"The Beacon Hill Architectural Commission has full regulatory authority over signage materials, quantity, location, attachment, and relationship to the scale of the building," a city official said. "Commission staff is aware of the growing concern of unapproved temporary signage throughout the district, and routinely collaborates with the neighborhood stakeholders to resolve any violations promptly and in accordance with the enabling legislation."

Rob Whitney, president of the Beacon Hill Civic Association board of directors, said the city's commitment to resolving this matter is already showing results.

"The Beacon Hill Civic Association has been extremely pleased that the Beacon Hill Architectural Commission has been recently looking into the improper fixing of advertising signage to the exterior of buildings and fences in the Beacon Hill Historic District without prior review and approval by the Beacon Hill Architectural Commission," Whitney wrote. "Nicholas Armata, senior preservation planner at the Beacon Hill Architectural Commission, has been great to work with in identifying these signs and banners that have been posted on Beacon Hill without approval, and in reaching out to the violators to bring the signage into compliance."

Cirque du Soleil announces a U.S. Premiere
Cirque du Soleil UNDER THE SAME SKY
 a brand new Big Top production to Premiere in Boston at Suffolk Downs on August 29th, 2020
 Tickets on sale now!

Cirque du Soleil is thrilled to announce that its new Big Top production, Cirque du Soleil UNDER THE SAME SKY, written and directed by renowned artist and stage designer Es Devlin, is coming to Boston for its U.S. Premiere. The show, presented by Air Canada, will premiere under the Big Top at Suffolk Downs starting August 29th, 2020. Tickets are now on sale.

While staying true to its roots in astonishing human performances, Cirque du Soleil's 51st original production and 20th Big Top show will bring a bold new visual approach to the Big Top. Vice President of Creation, Daniel Fortin, explains, "In working with iconic visual artist Es Devlin to lead this new creation, we are committed to making a strong and absolutely distinctive creative statement in 2020. This show marks not only the start of a new decade, but also an exciting new era for Cirque."

Through Devlin's exceptional creative lens, high-level acrobatics will be woven within a striking and disruptive visual universe. Spectators will be touched by uplifting choreography and startling physical theatre, and moved by the vibrant musical score, all infused with the warmth of human interconnection. The show's visionary approach will wow fans with monumental kinetic geometry glowing with vibrant color and light, bringing Cirque du Soleil on an exciting visual journey.

"Our intention for this show is to surprise the audience with something that is bold, daring and visually exciting, a fresh creative take on what we are," says Creation Director Chantal Tremblay.

Writer, Director and Set Designer, Es Devlin explains further: "At the roots of Cirque are exceptionally skilled humans performing at the limits of what is humanly possible. There are no words, no text. But the strongest story is understood: 2000 people all willing someone not to fall. It's a potent communal experience, a travelling tent full of 2000 strangers, all realizing at once that when it comes down to falling or flying, we all want the same thing."

Cirque du Soleil invites fans to meet under the big top in 2020 to share the experience of this new, surprising and joyful live gathering, a hymn to the vibrant communal experience that only a live show can offer.

Ticket Information

Cirque du Soleil's new show will be presented under the Big Top in Boston at Suffolk Downs starting on August 29th, 2020. To live the Cirque Experience to the fullest, VIP and Behind the Scenes packages are available.  MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

'Heart Mom' steps up

Bay Village resident turns anguish into activism by supporting heart research

By Dan Murphy

Bay Villager Melissa Alexander was beyond devastated six years ago when she discovered during a midterm screening her unborn child had a heart defect, but the expectant mother soon learned this type of congenital disorder was much more common than she ever would've thought.

"That's the first good look doctors get at the heart, so a lot of families find out then," said Alexander, who learned that her daughter-to-be suffered from Hypoplastic Right Heart Syndrome (HRHS). "What I found out was that she would need three open heart surgeries."

Elliot Grace, was born on June 24, 2014, and underwent her first open-heart surgery at Boston Children's Hospital at only three days old. She later endured her second and third medical procedures at the same hospital when she was six months and 2-and-a-half year old, respectively.

"About two years ago, after her third open heart surgery...I decided to stop sitting around, hoping for things to just 'happen,'" wrote Alexander, one of countless "Heart Mom," as mothers of children with heart defects are commonly known. "I founded The Children's Heart Foundation of New England, and am working tirelessly with other heart families and volunteers across the region to raise funds to fight congenital heart defects."

The Children's Heart Foundation New England Chapter is a group of volunteers dedicated to raising awareness and money to support the national Children's Heart Foundation's mission of funding research to advance the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of congenital heart defects (CHDs). While there are many other "heart communities," as Alexander calls them, she said theirs is the only that focuses solely on research.

"I was shocked to learn her diagnosis and how common it is - one in every 110 newborns has CHD - and more than half of CHDs are not detected prior to birth," Alexander told this reporter. "In a weird way, I've become the central point for parents of children born with CHDs. I get emails regularly from friends of friends who have children with CHDs and want to know what to do."

The most common birth defect in the U.S., CHDs afflict more than 40,000 babies born each year, and left undetected, many children succumb to them before the age of 1. There is no cure for a critical CHD, which requires lifelong medication, monitoring, continued treatment and, sometimes, additional surgery, but death rates from congenital heart defects have declined by 37.5 percent due to medical advancements.

The Children's Heart Foundation has raised more than $13 million to support CHD research and scientific collaborations to date. Yet Alexander wrote, "We are only able to fund a small portion of the research grant requests we receive - more funding is needed to advance medical care and treatment."

So, Alexander urges readers to show their support for The Children's Heart Foundation New England today, especially since February is Heart Month and this week, Feb. 7-14, marks CHD Awareness Week.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, "Hops for Hearts" comes to the Exhibit 'A' Brewing Company in Framingham. For every full pour served, the brewery has pledged to donate $1 to directly support the nonprofit, and the fundraiser will also feature a silent auction, as well as an on-site food truck from Matilda Empanada.

Looking ahead, the New England Congenital Heart Walk (previously known as the Boston Heart Walk) takes place Saturday, May 2, on the Boston Common.

"We usually have about 500 participants and raise around $100,000, said Ramin, who is chairing the event for the third consecutive year. (Teams are now being recruited for the walk and sponsorship opportunities are also available; see contact information below for more information.)

Now 5-and-a-half years old, Elliot is thriving at the Josiah Quincy Elementary School in Boston. She is learning Mandarin and the cello, and has visited over 15 countries in Europe and Asia with her mother and baby sister to date. Elliot also raises money for CHD research by peddling lemonade in the summer and apple cider in the fall to her neighbors in Bay Village.

"She is alive because of research and the amazing doctors at Boston Children's Hospital," Alexander wrote.

breathing new life into some of the city's most iconic buildings. As chairman of the Artery Business Committee, the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, and a long-time board member of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation, and the Vault, Robert worked to shape everything from skylines to policy as Boston transitioned from one century to the next.

Yet Robert's true legacy stems from his incredible commitment to and leadership of Boston's civic, academic and philanthropic communities. On Beacon Hill, Robert was instrumental in working with the City of Boston to transform the former fire station on Mount Vernon Street into a permanent home for the Hill House Community Center. He served as chair of the Boston Municipal Research Bureau, on the boards of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Beacon Hill Civic Association, the Old North Foundation, was a life member of the Bostonian Society, and chaired the School of Social Science, Urban Affairs and Public Policy at Northeastern University.

As Boston established itself as a world leader in healthcare,

Robert served as an overseer and trustee for Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and Tufts Medical Center. For many years he was Chair of the Boston Zoological Society and the Council of Fellows for the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He spearheaded capital campaigns for the boards of Combined Jewish Philanthropies and United Way of Massachusetts Bay's Alexis de Tocqueville Society. At his alma mater, Robert was Chair of The Taubman Center for State and Local Government at Harvard, and Chair of Harvard Hillel, the center and catalyst for Jewish life on the Harvard campus.

Said his nephew, Bruce A. Beal, Jr., president of the Related Companies: "Robert was an amazing man. I was blessed to have him as an uncle. He was kind and generous and cared for so many expecting nothing in return. His legacy lives inside of all of us and we will do our best to honor him and make him proud."

In addition to his brother and nephew, Robert is survived by his niece Dr. Alexandra Stern, his nephew Christopher Beal, and several great nieces and great nephews. Funeral services will be private.

Visit Esplanade.org/Fitness to learn more and register.

Lecture series looks back on urban renewal in the West End

The West End Museum presents "Reflections on Boston's West End: The Origins & Lessons of Urban Renewal," a lecture series that provides a comprehensive examination of the forces that led to the urban renewal programs in mid-20th century America. Structured as a series of seven lectures with discussion, each session has a distinct topic, but all use Boston's West End urban renewal project as the primary example and connecting point.

Attendees will learn how an entire Boston neighborhood vanished, displacing about 7,500 people who called it home. Tenement houses with mom-and-pop storefronts fell to the wrecking ball, ultimately to be replaced by high-rises with professed suburban amenities, all in the name of progress.

Series presenter James Briand has worked with The West End Museum since 2009, developing classroom presentations and tours on various topics including urban renewal, the work of Jane Jacobs, the 1949 Housing Act, and Title One. Briand has authored numerous articles on local history and is a lifelong resident of the Boston area.

Beginning Feb. 19 and running through the fall, the lectures take place on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8 p.m. at the museum. Pre-registration is required at thewestendmuseum.org/events. Attendees may opt to register for the entire lecture series for $120 ($60 Museum members and students), or individual sessions for $20 each ($10 Museum members and students).

Conversation with Caregivers

The Dementia Care Collaborative welcomes guest speaker Donna Newman-Bluestein, MEd, BC-DMT, LMHC, for "Embodied Caregiving: Transforming the Culture of Care for People with Dementia through Movement Therapy" at the Mass. General Hospital, O'Keefe Auditorium, 55 Fruit St., on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 5:30 p.m.

How do we convey acceptance, caring, and genuine interest to people whose verbal skills are diminished so that they feel safe and willing to cooperate? Through video and a lecture demonstration, Dr. Newman-Bluestein's program will offer a brief overview at the many ways we express ourselves through movement so that people with dementia experience genuine connection and pleasure, rather than isolation, loneliness, and abandonment.

This monthly educational seminar series is a helpful resource for everyone; for caregivers walking the journey of dementia with a loved one, for clinicians, hospital staff, and community members.

All are welcome. Refreshments will be available at 5 p.m., and admission is free. R.S.V.P. at 617-724-0406.

Friends of the Boston Harborwalk's 'Winter Harbor Cruise'

Friends of the Boston Harborwalk presents a narrated Boston Harbor tour on Boston Harbor Cruise's Regency on Saturday, Feb. 22, departing from and returning to Long Wharf. Boarding begins at 9:30 a.m. with departure at 10 a.m. (sharp), returning at approximately 12:15 p.m. Specific dock location and boarding information will be sent out days prior to the tour.

The heated vessel will travel around the Inner Harbor and out past the Boston Harbor Islands. Speakers will discuss the history and evolution of Boston's waterfront. Dress extra warmly if you would like to be outside.

Admission is $20, and the fee supports the work of the Friends of the Boston Harborwalk, affiliated with Boston Harbor Now, is an all-volunteer group that promotes public enjoyment of Boston's 43-mile Harborwalk.

Lecture explores Newcomb Pottery

The Nichols House Museum presents a lecture called "A Lover of the Beautiful": Harriet Joor, Newcomb Pottery, and the Arts and Crafts Movement" with Maggie Dimock on Tuesday, Feb. 25, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at Grogan & Co. Auction House, 20 Charles St.

Founded in New Orleans in 1895, the Newcomb Pottery enterprise gained international attention for its distinctive ceramic wares featuring painted decoration derived from floral and botanical specimens of the Louisiana bayou region. This lecture will explore the legacy of the Newcomb enterprise through the lens of one of its artists, Harriet Coulter Joor (1875-1965). Joor was instrumental in establishing Newcomb Pottery's artistic direction, and her subsequent post-Newcomb career as a designer for Gustav Stickley's Craftsman Workshops open a further window into the remarkable influence the Newcomb enterprise had on early 20th-century American design, and the opportunities available for professional women artists of the Progressive Era.

LEGAL NOTICE

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
The Trial Court
Probate and Family Court

CITATION GIVING NOTICE OF PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN FOR INCAPACITATED PERSON PURSUANT TO G.L. C. 190B, §5-304 Docket No. SU20P0145GD Suffolk Probate and Family Court 24 New Chardon Street PO Box 9667 Boston, MA 02114 (617) 788-8300 In the matter of: Robert Wells Of: Boston, MA

To the named Respondent and all other interested persons, a petition has been filed by Massachusetts General Hospital of Boston, MA, in the above captioned matter alleging that Robert Wells is in need of a Guardian and requesting that Massachusetts General Hospital of Boston, MA (or some other suitable person) be appointed as Guardian to serve on the bond.

The petition asks the court to determine that the Respondent is incapacitated, that the appointment of a Guardian is necessary, and that the proposed Guardian is appropriate. The petition is on file with this court and may contain a request for certain specific authority.

You have the right to object to this proceeding. If you wish to do so, you or your attorney must file a written appearance at this court on or before 10:00 A.M. on the return date of 02/20/2020. This day is NOT a hearing date, but a deadline date by which you have to file the written appearance if you object to the petition. If you fail the written appearance by the return date, action may be taken in this matter without further notice to you. In addition to filing the written appearance, you or your attorney must file a written affidavit stating the specific facts and grounds of your objection within 30 days after the return date.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

NEIGHBORHOOD ROUNDUP

BSNJ Community Children's Chorus

The Boston Society of The New Jerusalem (BSNJ) Community Children's Chorus is a comprehensive musical training program for children in Grades 3 to 7.

Your child will be participating in a program that promotes: the love of music, expressive singing, teamwork-cooperative learning, building new friendships, self-assessment and the fun of being in a well organized program.

The rehearsals take place at 140 Bowdoin St. on Tuesday afternoons. Tuition is free for any child with a Boston address. All levels of singing ability are welcome. To sign up, please contact Mr. Doctor at 617-523-4575 or visit www.churchonthehillboston.org (click on "music").

The Church on the Hill sponsors this initiative but we are not promoting any religious ideology.

ESL conversation group resumes meeting at West End Branch Library

The West End Branch of the Boston Public Library, located at 151 Cambridge St., welcomes the English as a Second Language (ESL) conversation group every Tuesday from noon to 1:30 p.m. Come and practice your English language skills with other newcomers and a facilitator.

West End Playgroup meets Tuesday mornings

The West End Community Center, located at 1 Congress St., welcomes the West End Playgroup on Tuesdays from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. through the fall and winter.

This is a free drop-in time to let kids play and adults chat with one another. Small toy donations are welcome.
